

Reference Recording Brief

25 short English sentences • recorded once in a single native accent (the dialect agreed for this order)

Recording specifications

- Format: WAV, mono, 16-bit. Sample rate 16 kHz or 48 kHz (either is fine).
- One clean take of each sentence. No music, no effects, and please no compression, noise reduction, or EQ — raw, unedited audio.
- Quiet room, consistent mic distance. A natural, conversational pace — please don't over-enunciate or exaggerate; read each line as if speaking to a friend.
- You're welcome to record everything in one continuous take. If you do, please pause for a few seconds between sentences. Separating the sentences into individual clips is appreciated but not required.

These lines are used as pronunciation references for language learners, so a relaxed, authentic delivery in your own accent matters far more than a polished or theatrical reading.

The 25 sentences

NO.	SENTENCE
ref_001	I left my keys on the kitchen table again.
ref_002	She wants to visit her family next month, maybe around the holidays.
ref_003	The man sent the cup back to us.
ref_004	They moved into a much bigger house just last spring.
ref_005	We saw three deer near the river while walking early this morning.
ref_006	My brother bought a shiny new red car last weekend.
ref_007	These cheap seats are not very big.
ref_008	She always drinks her morning coffee black, without any sugar.
ref_009	Could you please turn off the lights before bed?
ref_010	She really enjoys speaking both English and a little French.
ref_011	Could you please pass me the salt and the bottle of water?
ref_012	The weather looks lovely, so I think we'll go for a long walk later.
ref_013	He found a nice little apartment downtown, close to his office.
ref_014	I think we should leave a little early to beat the traffic.
ref_015	I'd love to grab a coffee after work.

NO.	SENTENCE
ref_016	I completely forgot to bring my umbrella again this morning.
ref_017	We watched a really good film together on Friday night.
ref_018	Let's meet at that new little place near the park around noon.
ref_019	They love walking along the beach together almost every evening.
ref_020	He carefully put all the books back on the shelf.
ref_021	I'm not sure who edited the final report.
ref_022	Please close the window before you leave; it's getting really cold.
ref_023	Do you want to come over this weekend and help me paint the kitchen?
ref_024	I usually like to read a good book before I fall asleep.
ref_025	Don't forget to call your mother back tomorrow, okay?